

Active Assailant Considerations for Mitigating Risks

Active assailant events are increasingly commonplace. Responding to this ever-growing threat, Tokio Marine HCC has developed an active assailant coverage that helps businesses mitigate losses and recover from an attack quickly and effectively.

In addition, Unity Advisory Group has provided some considerations for mitigating Active Assailant Risks which you may find useful.

Considerations

---

1. Conduct a Comprehensive Risk Assessment

- Identify site-specific vulnerabilities and threats.
- Evaluate physical, operational, and behavioral risks.

2. Develop an Active Assailant Response Plan

- Include lockdown, evacuation, and shelter-in-place protocols.
- Assign clear roles to employees and security teams.

3. Establish a Behavioral Threat Assessment Team (BTAT)

- Form a team (HR, security, legal, mental health, etc.) to monitor risks.
- Create confidential reporting mechanisms.

4. Implement Access Control & Surveillance

- Use keycard/biometric access systems.
- Install CCTV and audit footage regularly.

5. Train Staff in Situational Awareness

- Conduct regular "Run, Hide, Fight" drills.
- Train employees to identify and report warning signs.

6. Partner with Local Law Enforcement

- Share building layouts and emergency plans.
- Invite officers to participate in drills and planning.

7. Enable Mass Notification Systems

- Deploy alerts via SMS, apps, and intercom.
- Use pre-written messages for different scenarios.

8. Secure Critical Infrastructure

- Harden high-value areas (server rooms, control rooms).
- Install reinforced doors and protective glass where needed.

9. Review & Update Plans Regularly

- Conduct annual plan reviews and after-action evaluations.
- Keep emergency contacts and floor plans up to date.

10. Provide Post-Incident Support

- Offer counseling and mental health services.
- Include recovery, communication, and continuity plans.

Active Assailant Insurance is an essential component of any risk management strategy concerned with people-risk, business continuity and reputational risk.
