

Modern Slavery Statement 2021

Tokio Marine HCC International (TMHCC International) remains committed to ensuring that its corporate activities and supply chains are free from slavery and human trafficking. TMHCC International takes a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and human trafficking in any form including: slavery, servitude, forced and compulsory labour and human trafficking (“Modern Slavery”).

As required by the Modern Slavery Act 2015 (“MSA 2015”), this statement describes the steps TMHCC International has taken during the financial year ended 31 December 2021 to prevent Modern Slavery from taking place in its supply chain or within TMHCC International’s business activities.

Organisation structure

The companies that comprise TMHCC International are subsidiaries of HCC Insurance Holdings, Inc. (TMHCC Group), a leading international specialty insurance group with more than 100 classes of specialty insurance.

TMHCC International is TMHCC Group’s operating segment outside of the United States. TMHCC International’s principal operating companies include HCC International Insurance Company plc (a UK insurance company), its wholly owned subsidiary Tokio Marine Europe S.A. (TME), (a Luxembourg insurance company), HCC Underwriting Agency Ltd, the managing agent of HCC Syndicate 4141 (a wholly aligned Lloyd’s syndicate) and Houston Casualty Company (London Branch). Other companies within TMHCC International exist to support the (re)insurance business written by those principal operating entities.

Business and supply chains

TMHCC International underwrites (re)insurance products. In 2021 TMHCC International underwrote its products through three core underwriting segments; International Specialty (Financial Lines, Professional Risks, Credit & Political Risk and Surety), London Market (Marine & Energy, Treaty Reinsurance, Delegated Property, Property Direct and Facultative and Accident & Health) and J Business (Japanese business from its UK offices, its European branches and across the rest of the EEA via Freedom of Services authorisations and accepts inwards reinsurance risks from United States, Canada, Australia and the rest of the world where its licenses permit.

TMHCC International does not act as a producer or manufacturer or distributor of tangible physical goods and, as such, has no supply chains regarding any such activities.

The majority of the supply chains involved in TMHCC International’s (re)insurance business are regulated entities, such as (re)insurance brokers or cover holders. Those wishing to do business with TMHCC International must enter into written terms of business agreements which outline the responsibilities of each party in relation to the provision of (re)insurance.

TMHCC International’s supply chains also include third party suppliers of IT services; telecoms; facilities management services including, for example, cleaning, security; marketing and branding materials; and consultancy and professional service firms, such as claims related service providers, audit, tax, legal, investment management, and payroll services. As TMHCC International’s supply chains are largely comprised of regulated entities and professional service companies, we consider there is a low risk of Modern Slavery.

Polices on modern slavery

TMHCC International is committed to carrying out its business activities fairly, honestly, transparently and its responsible approach to business extends to procurement, outsourcing and third parties and it is committed to preventing slavery and human trafficking in its corporate activities and ensuring that its supply chains and third-party relationships are free from slavery and human trafficking.

TMHCC International has policies and procedures in place to prevent Modern Slavery in the supply chain, including the Outsourcing and Contract Management Policy, the Delegated Authority Procedures and the Broker Vetting Procedures. Policies and practices are continually reviewed to ensure they remain appropriate.

Due diligence

TMHCC International's outsourcing and procurement process includes due diligence of new suppliers, outsourcers and third parties as well as reviews and audits of existing suppliers, outsourcers and third parties. Transparency in the supply chain in relation to Modern Slavery is reviewed at the due diligence stage.

TMHCC International continues to take a robust approach to the selection, appointment and management of its suppliers, outsourcers and this approach is supported by embedded practices and policies. During 2021 we undertook the following additional steps:

- Modern Slavery training was updated and provided to all TMHCC International UK employees in 2021 and will be rolled out again in 2022. The Modern Slavery training is now included within the induction plan for new joiners, who are required to complete the training within 2 months of joining;
- A link to the TMHCC International Modern Slavery Statement is included as part of the training course that new employees complete;
- Modern slavery training provided to TMHCC International UK employees received a training completion rate of 98.8%;
- All relevant TMHCC International polices refer to Modern Slavery;
- TMHCC International's Whistleblowing Policy includes explicit references to Modern Slavery;
- Terms of business agreements with brokers and standard market agreements with third parties that have delegated authority have been reviewed and updated to ensure that, where appropriate, a clause is included for the prevention of Modern Slavery within the supply chain; and
- All third parties with outsourcing activities are asked relevant questions relating to their modern slavery controls to assist with identifying any new risk areas within TMHCC International's supply chains.

Next steps – 2022

TMHCC International's commitment to ensuring that Modern Slavery does not take place within its business or supply chains is ongoing. Building upon the steps that have already been undertaken, planned initiatives in 2022 include:

- Continue to deliver Modern Slavery training to all TMHCC International employees as part of the annual modern slavery training module;

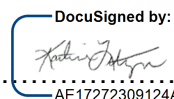

- Include reference to Modern Slavery, where appropriate, as part of the update to the Broker Vetting Procedures;
- Continue to work to identify appropriate key performance indicators to support the ongoing monitoring and management of Modern Slavery risk; and
- Consideration to be given to expanding the modern slavery requirements to include TMHCC International's non-UK entities.
